Leave a Trail: The Fearless Journey of Global Changemaker

Carol is the unstoppable force behind Belmont Business Enterprise Centre and the Textile Clothing Footwear Resource Centre of Western Australia. If that's a mouthful, it's because her impact is massive. For over 30 years, she's been the go-to mentor for small businesses, fashion startups, and female entrepreneurs around the globe.

This woman doesn't just walk the runway, she builds it.

Global Voice, Local Roots

Carol didn't grow up with privilege. Raised in a home where charity food parcels were a regular sight and opportunity was scarce, she learned early that if she wanted a future, she'd have to make it herself.

So at seven, she picked up a needle. At thirteen, she was sewing for clients. By twenty, she had her own fashion label. Fast forward? She's now represented Australia at the APEC Women in the Economy Forum, hosted UN CSW NGO forums, and been awarded the Women of the Decade Award.

Talk about going from working out of the garage to global impact.

Passion + Practicality = Power

Carol's not just about pretty patterns, she's about practical tools. She runs two nonprofits, sends donated sewing machines to empower women in countries like Lebanon and Papua New Guinea, and produces award-winning webinars on everything from trademarking to time management. And if you think she's slowing down at 70, think again. Her words?

"I'm not retiring, I'm rewiring."

Words to Live By

“Do not follow where the path may lead. Go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.”

She’s walked that path. And now she’s helping other women create their own.

Carol’s Superpower?

If she had one day to change the world, she’d erase gender inequality everywhere. (Oh, and in her downtime? She’s a karaoke queen. You heard it here first.)

Carol Hanlon is what happens when determination meets legacy-building. She’s not just mentoring businesses, she’s moving mountains.

Every mountain Carol climbed made space for yours, now it’s your turn.
